

Pamper for Cancer Charity May 8

We've written about Camp Casey in Strut -- the very cool charity that tries to make life easier on kids with cancer by organizing horseback riding camps for them and their families. It's a great program that helps these kids escape from their disease for a while and restore their confidence as they ride high on atop a 2,000 pound animal. Such good works require moola, however, and you can help out by attending a pampering fundraiser this Thursday at Equilibrium Pilates Studio in Bloomfield Hills. The event is from 4-9 p.m and celebrates women-owned businesses with shopping booths from 15 vendors who've agreed to give Camp Casey 15 percent of that night's proceeds. (Really great vendors like funky clothier This is Me in Birmingham and the fun pet shop the Shaggy Chic Boutique.) You'll also have great cocktails and eats on which to nosh (Did I mention the Cupcake Station would be there? I heart the Cupcake Station). And raffle prizes. And kids' activities. And spa services donated by Franklin Spa! Get down there.
